

St. Peter's Response to CoVid-19 Virus

The spread of the Covid-19 virus has adversely affected all of us, significantly in restricting our attendance at worship services in our churches. While individual prayer or watching televised services in the isolation of our homes is helpful, we miss the support of worshipping in fellowship with our Christian brethren.

While not a substitute for actual physical attendance in church, Fr. Michael Mautner has begun providing us with an opportunity for sharing some fellowship in Morning and Evening Prayer. He has been using the internet platform used for online seminary classes to conduct the prayer services for members of St. Peter's Parish and others. Those of us who participate in this way can at least be a part of the "congregation" praying together. In addition to Fr. Mautner, who conducts the services while also isolated in his home, we hear other congregants in the responsive readings and even see those who are able to join with video webcams. We began with only four people but now have more than a dozen in attendance and growing. We even have had members (Praise God!) who are no longer in the Bay area, but are no longer so "remote" from us!
